LIST OF FIGURES

PART I
Figure 1. Labour statistics: Bridge between economic and social statistics
Figure 2. Labour force surveys: Advantages and limitations
Figure 3. Establishment surveys: Advantages and limitations
Figure 4. Administrative records: Advantages and limitations
Figure 5. Productive and non-productive activities
Figure 6. Labour force framework
Figure 7. International definition of employment
Figure 8. Usually active measurement framework

PART II
Figure 1. Employment by industry
Figure 2. Histogram and density curve of an income distribution (artificial data)
Figure 3. Conditional distributions of occupation given SE (US, 2006)
Figure 4. Scatter diagram of variables X and Y (artificial data)
Figure 5. Supply and demand of labour
Figure 6. Tanzania age pyramid 2010
Figure 7. Population age pyramids, 2010
Figure 8. Dependency ratios (2010)
Figure 9. Labour force participation rate (World, 2010)
Figure 10. Labour force participation rate, Tanzania (Zanzibar), 2008
Figure 11. Labour force participation rate, USA March 2006
Figure 12. Labour force participation rate of men and women by educational attainment
Figure 13. Labour force by educational attainment in four countries
Figure 14. Female labour force participation rate by marital status
Figure 15. Unemployment rate by age group
Figure 16. Youth versus national unemployment rate
Figure 17. Percentage number of unemployed persons by duration of unemployment
Figure 18. School leavers: academic year 2004–2005 (An illustration)
Figure 19. Youth school-to-work transition: An illustration with labour force survey data
Figure 20. Relative number of employed persons by hours usually worked per week at all jobs
Figure 21. Rate of time-related underemployment in seven countries
Figure 22. Correspondence of International Standard Classifications of All Economic Activities (ISIC Rev 3.1 and ISIC Rev 4)
Figure 23. Employment by branch of economic activity, South Africa (2008)
Figure 24. Labour productivity in selected branches of economic activity
Figure 25. SE in main job in two countries
Figure 26. Average monthly earnings by level of educational attainment
Figure 27. Average monthly earnings by age group
Figure 28. Definitions of working poor
Figure 29. Profile of working poor by age group (USA 2004)

PART III
Figure 1. Coherence of employment and output trends
Figure 2. Sampling distribution of unemployment estimates